

26 degree of Sagittarius: 'A flag-bearer in a battle'

The function of the soldier who wields the flag in battle is that of motivation, providing his army with a clear visual message of what it is they are fighting and dying for. He is not actually fighting, but his job is considered so important that, should he be killed, another takes his place immediately.

This is a heroic, self sacrificing figure, moving toward the enemy unarmed or, better, armed only with an idea or principle, uniting his soul to countless others.

Having the courage to confront challenges head on; putting oneself on the line for the welfare of a group or ideal.
