

14 degree of Sagittarius: 'The Pyramids and the Sphinx'

The past again*. This time though is not the personal past or unconscious contents of an individual psyche, but rather the world's past, its history, and the collective unconscious of humanity, the archetypal structure that sustains the world as we know it. This structure gives us a sense of continuity, surpassing the knowledge of personal mortality and bringing us to the realization of the equalizing effect of time on all life.

In a cultural sense this is the past that is the source of all present expressions and achievements, philosophical, spiritual, technological as well as aesthetic.

Negatively could link us to a past that we no longer understand, crumbling and silent ruins we revisit as tourists from another world.

Positively it can enrich and deepen the knowledge of who we are and where we are going.
