

15 degree of Capricorn: 'Many toys in the children ward of a hospital. Really care

A hospital is a place of healing, rest and recuperation, not just for ailing bodies but even more so for ailing souls.

We are all children when faced with a serious illness and severe pain, in need of unconditional love and support. As children too we all possess a power often forgotten or undervalued in our adult years.

While medical procedures, drugs and physical care help sick bodies to recover or, at least, to cope better with unavoidable pains, the 'toys' in this image are means for tapping into the power of creative imagination, visualizing ways out of one's illness, physical and/or psychological.

The fact that the toys are many testifies to the potential riches of an imagination which is nurtured and not repressed. Key: realizing the power of the inner child to heal the rift between body and soul, common 'cause' to all illnesses.
