

18 degree of Capricorn: 'The Union Jack flies from a new British destroyer'

This image suggests getting ready for war, not yet the actual time of open conflict.

Destroyers are warships, with anti-aircraft and anti-submarines powers. This one in particular is not any old warship but a newly built one, equipped with the latest war gadgets. The Union jack flying from it sends a clear message about what all this wonderful and expensive armament is meant to protect, a homeland and sense of national identity.

Transferring this image to the individual, we are standing our ground here, not just making a hollow show of force, but demonstrating beyond doubt that we are not unprotected and know how to defend ourselves should we need to.
