

24th degrees of Scorpio: 'Crowds coming down the mountain to listen to one man'

This image reminds us of that passage in the Old Testament describing Moses descent from Mount Sinai to communicate to the people the laws of right conduct he received from God on the summit. This time though the people are descending from the mountain to listen to one man, in the plain. The image is reversed, conveying the idea of people having to descend from the high places where they have felt their traditional beliefs superior to those of others and well above the material plane, to discover that the Truth is a lot closer to the Earth itself, and that wise teachers can be found in our everyday life, not on lofty, inaccessible heights.
